CONTAMINATED LAND MANAGEMENT ACT 1997

Section 11

Environment Protection Authority

Declaration of Significantly Contaminated Land

Declaration Number 20151101; Area Number 3387

The Environment Protection Authority (EPA) declares the following land to be significantly contaminated land under the Contaminated Land Management Act 1997 (“the Act”):

1. Land to which this declaration applies (“the site”)

This declaration applies to the land that is located at 425 Crown Street Wollongong West and is identified as Lot 100 in DP 1182252 within the local government area of Wollongong City Council. The site is known to be the Woolworths Petrol Service Station (Store No 1707). A map of the site is available for inspection at the Environment Protection Authority, 59 Goulburn Street, Sydney, NSW.

2. Nature of contamination affecting the site:

The EPA has found that the site is contaminated with petroleum hydrocarbons.

3. Nature of harm that the contaminants may cause:

The EPA has considered the matters in s12 of the Act and for the following reasons has determined that the land is contaminated and that the contamination is significant enough to warrant regulation under the Act.

- Wide spread benzene, toluene, ethyl-benzene and xylenes (BTEX) and total petroleum hydrocarbons (TPHs) contamination in onsite soil and groundwater.
- Contaminants concentrations in soil, soil vapour and groundwater significantly exceed the relevant assessment criteria for commercial/industrial use.
- The contamination has migrated offsite via groundwater flow.
- The onsite contamination, if not mitigated, has the potential to cause harm to the onsite workers via exposure to high concentrations of soil vapour and to the occupiers of the adjoining properties via the expansion of the groundwater plume.

4. Further action under the Act

The making of this declaration does not prevent the carrying out of voluntary management of the site and any person may submit a voluntary management proposal for the site to the EPA. If the proposal satisfies the requirements of s17 of the Act, the EPA may agree not to issue a management order to the person or persons bringing the proposal.

5. Submissions invited

The public may make written submissions to the EPA on:

- Whether the EPA should issue a management order in relation to the site; or
- Any other matter concerning the site.

Submissions should be made in writing to:

Manager Contaminated Sites
Environment Protection Authority
PO Box A290
SYDNEY SOUTH NSW 1232

or faxed to 02 9995 5930

Date: 14 April 2015

NIALL JOHNSTON

Manager Contaminated Sites
Environment Protection Authority

NOTE:

Management order may follow

If management of the site or part of the site is required, the EPA may issue a management order under s14 of the Act.

Amendment/Repeal

This declaration may be amended or repealed. It remains in force until it is otherwise amended or repealed. The subsequent declaration must state the reasons for the amendment or repeal (s44 of the Act).

Information recorded by the EPA

Section 58 of the Act requires the EPA to maintain a public record. A copy of this significantly contaminated land declaration will be included in the public record.

Information recorded by councils

Section 59 of the Act requires the EPA to give a copy of this declaration to the relevant local council. The council is then required to note on its planning certificate issued pursuant to s149 (2) of the Environmental Planning and Assessment Act that the land is declared significantly contaminated land. The EPA is required to notify council as soon as practicable when the declaration is no longer in force and the notation on the s149 (2) certificate is no longer required.

Relationship to other regulatory instrument

This declaration does not affect the provisions of any relevant environmental planning instruments which apply to the land or provisions of any other environmental protection legislation administered by the EPA.

ELECTRICITY (CONSUMER SAFETY) ACT 2004

- pursuant to section 21 (1) of the Act prohibit the sale of the electrical article described in Part 1 of Schedule 1, from the date of publication of this notice in the Gazette; and
- issue this notice believing on reasonable grounds as specified in Schedule 2 that:
 - the electrical article is, by reason of its design or construction, unsafe to use; and
 - prohibiting the sale of the electrical article is warranted by reason of the risk of death or injury to any person or damage to any property arising out of the use of the electrical article.

Dated this 15th day of April 2015

JOHN TANSEY
 Assistant Commissioner
 Home Building Service
 NSW Fair Trading

Interpretation

“Director-General” has the same meaning as it has in the Fair Trading Act 1987: See section 3 (1) of the Act. The effect of section 4 (1) of the Fair Trading Act 1987 and clause 6 of the Administrative Arrangements (Administrative Changes – Ministers and Public Service Agencies) Order 2014 is that at the date of this notice, “the Commissioner for Fair Trading, Office of Finance and Services” is the “Director-General”.

The object of this Prohibition Notice is to prohibit flexible heating pads described in Part 1 of Schedule 1 but not the models of flexible heating pads specified in Part 2 of Schedule 1.

Schedule 1

Part 1 – Prohibited electrical articles

A flexible heating pad (also known as an electric hot water bottle or electric hot pack) incorporating a bladder containing a liquid and internal electrical components that are used in heating the internal liquid, other than heating pads of the models specified in Part 2 of Schedule 1.

Part 2 – Electrical articles excluded from the class of prohibited electrical articles specified in Part 1 of Schedule 1

The following models of flexible heating pads are not included in the class of electrical articles prohibited by this Prohibition Notice:

Model Number	Electrical safety approval number	Description	Brand
200	GMA-102077-EA	Electric hot pack	Skyla
201	GMA-102077-EA	Back Warmer	Skyla
202	GMA-102077-EA	Foot warmer	Skyla

Schedule 2

A flexible heating pad, also known as an electrical hot water bottle or electric heat pack, is unsafe to use because of its design, construction or manufacture, which can result in the flexible heating pad causing an electrical shock while in use.

Such a flexible heating pad:

- is a declared article under the definition of ‘Flexible Heating pad’;
- is emerging technology;
- has a design and use which no relevant standard totally captures; and
- does not comply with the relevant standard of essential safety requirements of Australian/New Zealand Standard AS/NZS 3820 (Standard).

A flexible heating pad is designed to be connected to power to heat up the liquids contained within the bladder. However, the present design of such articles allows them to be used while connected to the power supply.

When examined by NSW Fair Trading, flexible heating pads were found to have several serious safety issues. These serious issues were identified as:

1. The use of electrodes to heat the internal liquid.
Exposed electrodes may heat the internal liquid which can conduct an electric current from the electrodes to a user via indirect contact through the outer bladder.
2. Can be charged whilst in use by consumers.
Currently the design of flexible heating pads allows the use of the pad while it is being charged, increasing the risk of electric shock.
3. Construction/design/material – in particular the construction of the bladder.
The bladder is all that insulates a user from the electrical components. If the integrity of the bladder is compromised it may result in an electric shock. NSW Fair Trading has serious concerns about the integrity of the bladder against puncture, splitting or over-pressure caused by internal electrical fault, degradation or external forces,

4. Child appealing designs.

NSW Fair Trading had observed several flexible heating pads specifically marketed for children. These designs have been in the form of animal characters. These designs were inviting children to use, what is currently, an unsafe article. The Standard prohibits an enclosure that is shaped or decorated like a toy.

The question of the compliance of some types type of flexible heating pads was presented to the NSW Fair Trading Electrical Equipment Safety Advisory Committee (EESAC) constituted under clause 31 of the Electricity (Consumer Safety) Regulation 2006. On Friday 8 November 2013 EESAC agreed that such flexible heating pads did not comply with the Standard and that the certificate of approval covering them should be immediately cancelled.

A certificate of approval had been issued in error and has since been cancelled.

EESAC agreed that clause 22.33 of the Standard prohibits the design of such flexible heating pads and agreed that electrodes as referenced in the Standard should not be used to heat liquids in this manner. EESAC recommended that improved testing is required to verify the safety of flexible heating pads, as the current Standard is not sufficient.

EESAC agreed that the safety risk could be reduced if a flexible heating pad were charged through the use of a docking station or a similar way. This would prevent the misuse of the flexible heating pad when connected to an electrical supply.

NSW Fair Trading surveys of the marketplace and online sales have established the continued sale of several variants of non-compliant flexible heating pads. These sales are occurring primarily at pharmaceutical stores and there have been increased sales on online auction sites. Even more concerning is the recent discovery of imported models which appear to be inferior to those models located in stores.

NSW Fair Trading continues to hold serious concerns regarding flexible heating pads and their design. NSW Fair Trading is concerned that cooler seasonal weather will result in further sales and use of flexible heating pads and in turn increase the risk of injury to people using the product.
